Patti,

Our EU business is finally taking off and we all see that Andrew is a choke point for our growth, as he currently handles sales demo support as well as customer integration/support. So we are looking to hire a full time person who has either privacy law skills (very unlikely) or basic web development skills (probably much more likely). This person will 'shadow' Andrew, learning all aspects of what he does, and then gradually begin taking on sales demos or support functions (depending on which task they are better suited for). We can pay $2500 per month, and it's straight consulting (no benefits, tax withheld, etc) until the 3 month eval is passed.

If you know of any YC kids that would be good for this, please send them my way. Or feel free to forward this to the IT teaching staff at YC to see if they can suggest any. Happy to discuss if you have questions.

Roy
